Ways to Cope when Hearing Voices

• Use your own voice
  ▫ Talk to someone else, or read out loud
  ▫ Hum or sing quietly to yourself
  ▫ Count to yourself or repeat “I am OK”

• Distract yourself
  ▫ Shift attention away from the voices and onto things outside of yourself
    – Try housework, gardening, sports
  ▫ If you are indoors, change rooms or go outdoors
  ▫ If you are outdoors, take a walk or a car ride, or go indoors

• Use an earplug in one ear, then the other
  ▫ Sometimes the voices stop when you take it out
  ▫ Experiment with this for at least a week

• Take a “time out” – Being with other people can be stressful
  ▫ Being alone for a short time can help you calm down
  ▫ But staying alone too long when distressed can make the voices worse

• Tell the voices to stop
  ▫ Say “Stop” out loud as soon as the voices start
  ▫ Then quickly think of something pleasant and do something active to take your mind off the voices

• Challenge what the voices tell you
  ▫ We don’t always believe what people say to us, so we don’t have to believe what the voices say
  ▫ You can challenge them to “prove it” – ask people around you to see if what the voices say is true or not
  ▫ You can tell the voices you are too busy to listen now

• Consider the voices as your thoughts
  ▫ Instead of saying “My voices said I’m worthless,” say “My thoughts are telling me negative things.” (Those thoughts are not true.)
  ▫ Sometimes what the voices say are what we really think about ourselves
  ▫ It can be less “scary” if we use our own voice to say them
Ways to Cope when Hearing Voices

- Avoid caffeine, cold medicine with antihistamines, alcohol, or other substances that can make your voices worse
  - Let your psychiatrist know about effects of medications – Report any new or worsening voices

- Practice tuning out the voices
  - Start by practicing with a friend who talks to you while the TV and radio is turned on loud
  - You can get better at ignoring the noise, and can use those skills to tune out the voices

- Keep a record of when you hear voices
  - Carry paper and a pen – Write when they started, where they started, what they said, and when they stopped
  - You might find patterns that can help you develop your own coping techniques

- Talk to other people or be with a person you trust

- Get active by walking, jogging, riding a bike, or doing other physical activities

- Take care of your health and get enough sleep - Voices can be worse with:
  - Physical illnesses including fevers, flu, or anemia
  - Premenstrual syndrome (PMS)
  - Not eating well enough, or being low on vitamins

- Practice relaxation skills - Learn to relax, even when the voices start
  - Practice when you are not hearing voices
  - One simple technique is to sit down or lie down and, beginning at your toes, tense and then relax them while taking a slow breath in and out.
  - Then move up to your lower legs, tensing and relaxing them while breathing in and out.
  - Keep going all the way up to your head.
